Barton Bridge, Aqueduct & Control Tower

Map Sheet: SJ79NE
Grid Reference: Centroid SJ 7664 9759 (MBR: 10m by 10m)

Summary
Description: Swing Road Bridge, swing Canal Aqueduct and centrally placed Control Tower. c. 1894. Sir Leader Williams engineer. Wrought iron; brick tower. Both Bridge and Aqueduct revolve on a central axis to allow passage of ships. Aqueduct takes form of boxed lattice girder with cranked upper member and the channel, which remains full of water when turning, at the bottom. Road Bridge has bow-string lattice girders to either side of roadway. Bridge dates from the construction of the Manchester Ship Canal 1893-4. Fabricated by A. Handyside & Co. Ltd. Tall 2x2- bay, 4- storey central Tower with pyramid roof and external staircase. Aqueduct replaced Brindley’s of 1760 and is in itself a considerable feat of engineering.

Barton Swing Aqueduct. Built in 1893-4 to replace Brindley’s 3 arch aqueduct of 1761 and carries the Bridgewater canal over the Manchester Ship Canal. Driven by hydraulic machinery, supplied by electrically driven pumps, an iron trough full of water on roller bearings on a central pier. Plurivane and monovane pumps by Mather & Platt. The iron trough is 18 feet wide, 7 feet deep and 235 feet long. Abutments of Brindley’s aqueduct have survived on the Eccles side of the Ship Canal, bypassed when the Bridgewater Canal was realigned. Preferred Ref.    6799.1.0
Name    Former Methodist Chapel, Barton
Map Sheet    SJ79NE
Grid Reference    SJ 7652 9782 (point)
Summary
Description    A small chapel, built of brick with a datestone in NE wall “Opened 1796”. A Sunday school is attached. The chapel is in a semi-derelict state, it has a graveyard behind it, which is very overgrown, crowded and surrounded by a wall. Original chapel of 2 bays with entrance at SE end, enlarged to NW and walls heightened in early C19. 2 tiers round-arched windows now in 4 bays to the side walls. Interior: continuous gallery c1840 with rounded ends, panelled front and thin supporting columns of cast-iron. Lower seating dates from late C19. Extensive burial ground at rear with many headstones and ledger stones of C19 and later. Chapel in use 1973 by the Church of the Nazarine (summary)(2). The former Methodist church goes back to 1796 when the first chapel was erected on this site. This rectangular chapel was three bays long with an entrance at the south eastern end. It was enlarged by one bay to the north-west and the walls heightened in the early 19th century. Thus the eastern elevation and southern gable were built in Flemish Bonded brick whilst the western elevation and northern gable were built in English Garden Wall bonded brick. There were two tiers of four narrow round-arched windows with arches built in alternating stretcher with double header bond, the upper windows being partly in the wall heightening. A tablet in the north-eastern wall was inscribed with the date of opening. The interior had a continuous gallery inserted around 1840 with rounded ends, panelled front and thin supporting columns of cast iron. The pulpit was at the north western end. The lower seating dated from the late 19th century. The roof was pitched and clad with blue/grey slate. To the rear was an extensive burial ground with many headstones from the 19th and 20th centuries(4).

Summary

Description   Former cottages, now offices/shops. The conversion has managed to keep the period charm of the cottages. Rendered. Built 18th century. Gabled, slate roof. Two storeys(1). Two storey brick built structure with a purpose built Co-operative retail shop that was added at a later stage. The co-operative building was also a two storey brick built structure with decorative embellishments to the front face. Alteration occurred in the early and mid 20th century and included the removal of front bay windows when the premises were converted to retail premises. The Co-operative building remains much as it was when constructed, however, as with the adjoining building its front ground floor windows and doorways have been much altered to provide large floor to ceiling windows(2).
